RECENT FELLOWSHIPS, RESEARCH GRANTS, AND CONTRACTS

"Judaic Debates on the Nature of the Psalms: The Reception History of First-Person Psalms." J. William Fulbright Foreign Senior Scholar Fellowship Award for collaborative study with the Biblia Arabica Project at Tel Aviv University, January-June 2017, $16,000; academic leave for Spring 2017 supported by a College of Liberal Arts CRF.

This reception study sheds light on the pivotal role of psalms in the history of Jewish liturgy. My recent book on first-person psalms shows the sophisticated techniques that Israelites used to persuade God to intervene in their troubles. This project focuses on the problems these psalms raised for emerging Judaic theologies. Most were ultimately omitted from rabbinic liturgies. By analyzing annotations on these psalms by commentators from late antiquity through the middle ages, I will trace rival definitions of the psalms as prophecy, prayers or poetry—debates that explicitly reference classical theories of rhetoric and poetics transmitted across Islamic cultures.

"An Undergraduate Writing Collaboration between Southwestern University and The University of Texas at Austin." Mellon Foundation, 2011-2015, $720,000. Consultant with Mark Longaker to Writing in the Disciplines project directed by John McCann, supervising two post-doctoral fellows and conducting annual faculty workshops, $6500 per year.

Dean's Fellowship. "The Testimony of the Song." Semester's release for Spring 2009 for book project on the rhetoric of the Hebrew Psalms. (Granted.)

"Scaffolded Writing and Reviewing in the Disciplines." External Writing Process Consultant to project directed by Professor Christian Schunn at the Learning Development and Research Center, University of Pittsburgh, funded by the Andrew Mellon Foundation, 2004-2007, $7200 per year.

"Lone Geniuses and the Scientific Community." This six-month sabbatical for 2001 was spent in Cambridge, England. I was invited as a visiting scholar to the Department of History and Philosophy of Science and granted visiting status at Newnham College.
